A pleasant social event took place last evening at the residence of Mrs. Eugene Mottez at 121 Graham avenue. The members of Calanthe asembly No. 1, Pythian sisterhood, met at the residence of Mrs. W. N. Young at 7 o'clock and visited Mrs. Mottez in a body without previously acquainting ber with their intentions. The object of the visit was to bestow upon her some evidences of their appreciation of her faithful and efficient services as keeper of records and seals of the order, a position to which she seals of the order, a position to which she declined a re-election a short time since. A handsome gold pen and mounted inkstand were the appropriate articles selected. The presentation speech was made by Mrs. J. G. Tipton. The visit and the gift were a profound surprise to Mrs. Motter and she was visibly affected by the fine compliment.

THE OMAHA BEE THE NEWS IN THE BLUFFS. TOO BUSY TO WRITE ADV'TS.

A War on Vicious Dogs Began by the Mar- That is What Henry Eiseman & Co. Say, But They Must Let the People Know It.

A Glance Through the Largest Commercial House in the West-Santa Claus' Headquarters - A Fortone in Bargains.

To THE OMARA BEE Ad. Man: It is impossible for us to write out the large advertisement that we spoke of, as our store is so full of customers that it requires all of our time and attention to wait on them.

You can use your own judgement and write such facts as you may know about our holiday goods and let the public know that Eiseman's is headquarters for any and all kinds of holiday presents and that we will discount anybody's prices. Respectfully,

HENRY EISEMAN & Co., Council Bluffs, Ia.

The above note to The Bee advertising man, written by Mr. Simon Eiseman on a telegraph blank, was the invitation to the reporter sent to enjoy an hour in rambling through the half mile of aisles on the five floor of the Eisemans' great commercial palace. The hour was insufficient to see all but enough was noted to support Mr. Eiseman's assertion that there was no person about the building who could find time to write advertisements without neglecting patient customers.
On the first floor Saturday afternoon there was scarcely standing room. The ladies were making their purchases of dress goods from the great display of rare bargains for the holiday trade. It was as busy a scene as Council Bluffs ever witnessed. Clerks were almost concealed behind the piles and stacks of goods that had been taken down to suit the varying of the shoppers. Every loom in civilized world had contributed to the and the lady who did not buy had no excuse to plead except the single one that she had already bought too much for her purse in some of the other departments. The greatest attraction was on the third floor, which is devoted wholly to the toy de partment and the holiday goods. Of itself it is as large as two ordinary stores, but every foot of room that was not taken up by the crowds of people was occupied by stacks of goods designed for presents. Santa Claus. the real live old gentleman in flesh and blood. was there making his way through the crowd followed by troops of happy children. hundreds of visitors were unstituting in their commendations of the elegant exhibit, and the children especially were exuberant in their exclamations of delight at the many things peculiarly attractive to them. Santa Claus was in all his glory and the kindly ole king of the juvenile heart was followed about as he led the way from one attractive exhibit to another by a band of enthusiastic children who abundantly assured him of their love and loyalty what did he show them? A brilliant display of an almost endless variety of toys—a de-partment which is a veritable museum of cariosities, embracing everything that the genius of invention has brought out for the amusement of the children. The mechanical and steam toys were particularly attractive and ellcited the most vociferous exclamations of delight from the little one veniles through the crowded and beautifully arranged departments allotted to them, the older visitors were finding gratification in an inspection of the surerb stocks in which there are hundreds of appropriate gifts for gentlemen, young and old, unique and desira-ble presents for ladies of all ages, and many articles useful and beautiful, which are always in demand.

Here is a partial list of the holiday display. about one article in a thousand, and the clerks tell you when you inquire the price of anything that it is just one-half what it was a week ago-that Mr. Eiseman ordered them to sell everything at half price until after the new drug store that occupies the fine building erected by D. W. Archer at 541 Broadway. The building is one of the finest on the street and the front presents a very imposing appearance. It is composed largely of plate glass and sandstone. When you pass beyond the portals, guarded by heavy oaken doors, you are in one of the finest drug stores and chemical laboratories in the west. The floor is composed of mosaic tiles and all the woodwork is of polished oak. The show window is protected by the largest piece of plate glass is protected by the largest piece of plate glass in the west. The counters and fixtures are made of heavy walnut, therry and manogany. But what catches the eye first and holds the attention the longest is the magnificent decorations on the walls and ceilings. This is the work of J. W. Losey, designed by nimself and his chief artist W. E. Freeman, and executed in the highest style of the decorator and maper hanger's and Go, the decorator and paper banger's art. On the right as you enter your attention is claimed by an immense panel of plastic work that ex-tends from the wainscouling to the frieze. The plastic material is drawn into fantastic spidery-web designs, and stands out on the wall like a gigantic piece of skillfully hammered metal. It is difficult to conceive while looking at it that it is not bronze, such as marked the luxurious halls of some old world palace. On the opposite side is another smaller plate of plastic worked into different designs, with virdigris that showing through the coloring, making a rich showing through the celering, making a rich picture. The papering is executed in special patterns, and is composed of the new style lusters with embossed gold panels and filling. The frieze is heavy embossed gold on pure white background, and the coves are made from the lustry papers in colors that contrast and blend into the panels. All the panels are trimmed in heavy carved white and gold trimmed in heavy carved white and gold mouldings. Surrounding the panels on the ceiling are deep borders of lustry in harmonious colors and sprays of hand-painted vines and flowers entwine them and wander off into the center panels with artistic protusion. The effect is very pleasing, and when a customer comes in who has an eye for the beautiful he is apt to forget his errand while admiring the beautiful work.

Mr. Foster is very proud of his beautiful store and takes pleasure in praising Mr. Losey and his corps of artists and congratu-
